'Iron Triangle' Campaign Aimed Against Terrorists

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Viet Cong have been killed and a massive American force backed by planes, armor and artillery has launched the biggest offensive of the Vietnam war in an attempt to sweep the Viet Cong out of the jungled "Iron Triangle" 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon.

The objective is to capture a major headquarters complex of the Communists and to clear enemy troops from the tangled forests from which they menace the South Vietnamese capital.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's command announced the multidivision operation was launched at dawn Sunday. It said in the first three days 92

Powell Seating Set for House

Harlem Democrat Says Party Action Was a 'Lynching'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was expected to vote by nightfall today on whether Rep. Adam Clayton Powell can retain his seat in Congress.

Fellow Democrats ousted him Monday as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, an action which triggered this exclamation from the veteran Harlem congressman: "Jesus had only one Judas. I had about 120."

Only hours earlier, he had been confidently telling friends and newsmen: "Keep the faith, baby."

Monday's sidetracking of House Democratic leadership compromise plans seemed to add momentum to the drive by Republicans and some Democrats to bar Powell from his House seat pending an investigation.

Powell and many Negro leaders said racism was behind the attacks on him.

"A lynching, Northern style," was what Powell called the vote which booted him from the chairmanship.

Capitol Demonstration — "We're going to burn this country down — the Mau Mau's going to run this country," shouted a Negro identified as Charles X of New York during a Capitol demonstration for Powell.

LBJ to Present State of Union Talk Tonight

90th Congress To Hear President In Annual Address

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress convenes today and within hours will hear from President Johnson what he wants it to do this year.

The President is scheduled to deliver his State of the Union message in the House chamber at 9:30 p.m. EST, only 9½ hours

Networks Ready

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's State of the Union message to Congress, starting at 9:30 (EST) tonight, will be covered by the major television and radio networks.

The National Broadcasting Co., the Columbia Broadcasting System and the American Broadcasting Co. will carry the speech on both television and radio.

The Mutual Broadcasting System's radio network also will carry the speech.

after the first banging of the gavel for this less heavily Democratic Congress.

Congressional leaders expect Johnson to call for revisions of the draft law: continuance, probably with reduced financing, of "Great Society" programs enacted by the 89th Congress; from $10 billion to $15 billion extra to finance the war in Vietnam, and increased Social Security benefits.

Tax Request — Amidst signs that he will continue a wait-and-see policy on taxes, leaders do not expect an immediate request for a tax increase.

Johnson will be facing a House with a 248-187 Democratic edge, down 47 seats since the last election, and a Senate controlled by Democrats 64 to 36, off 3 Democratic seats since November.

Before the President goes to Capitol Hill tonight, members of Congress will be grappling with organizational and rules battles.

Sparking opening day in the House is the dispute over whether

State Supreme Court Upsets Alfonsi Ruling

New Trial Ordered After Justices Find Errors in Bribery Case Proceeding

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court reversed the bribery conviction of former Assembly Republican leader Paul Alfonsi today.

The court ordered a new trial for the Minocqua Republican, found guilty by a jury last July on a charge of accepting a $100 expense check as a bribe. The Supreme Court's ruling cleared the way for Alfonsi to be seated for a ninth term in the Assembly when the 1967 Legislature convenes Wednesday.

Writing the majority opinion, Justice Myron Gordon said that wrongful intent must be proven as a prerequisite for a bribery conviction.

Both Alfonsi and Hayward businessman Tony Wise, who sent the check, had testified during the trial last July that the $100 was meant to reimburse the legislator for expenses for a speaking trip and was not meant as a bribe.

Justice Gordon wrote, "Mr. Alfonsi's counsel made a timely demand for an instruction to the jury that a requirement for conviction was that the accused had engaged in this transaction with a guilty mind."

Prejudicial Error — "The trial court's refusal to give this crucial instruction constituted prejudicial error and necessitates a new trial."

Justice E. Harold Hallows said in his dissenting opinion that he did not believe the bribery law "requires a criminal or corrupt intent."

Dane County Dist. Atty. Floyd McBurney Jr., who took office last week as the successor to the man who prosecuted the Alfonsi case, said he had not decided yet whether to press a new trial.

"I just don't know yet. I haven't even seen the decision yet," said McBurney.

Noting the court's requirement that wrongful intent be proven, McBurney contended, "there's no question next time a conviction is going to be much more difficult."

Alfonsi in Seclusion — Alfonsi, a veteran legislative leader who first took his seat in the Assembly 34 years ago Wednesday, awaited the court's decision in seclusion.

Defense attorneys would not reveal Alfonsi's whereabouts before the ruling. But they jubilantly promised a news conference after the judgment was announced.

Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who once called the conviction "a travesty on justice," withheld comment while the new trial is pending.

Alfonsi, 58, was found guilty July 8 by a jury in Madison of accepting the expense check.

The indictment, returned in a three-month grand jury investigation of lobbying in the Legislature, accused Alfonsi of taking the expense money in exchange for assuming leadership of efforts to pass the accelerated highway construction bill.

Not Meant As Bribe — Both Wise and Alfonsi testified the money was not meant as a bribe but instead was intended to reimburse the assemblyman for expenses involved on

Relaxed Alfonsi Says Court Decision Made Day 'Greatest'

Attorney for Assemblyman Doubts There Will be Retrial

MADISON (AP) — Paul R. Alfonsi took his oath of office as an assemblyman today less than an hour after the Wisconsin Supreme Court reversed his bribery conviction.

The Minocqua Republican was sworn in by 1965 Speaker Robert Huber, D - West Allis, prior to a news conference.

"This is a great day," Alfonsi said. "I've had many great days but this is the greatest."

His attorney, John Fritschler of Madison, said it was possible Alfonsi might not have to face a new trial.

"Adopted Arguments" — "It is extremely heartening that the Supreme Court adopted our arguments that there had to be corrupt intent before he could be found guilty," Fritschler said.

"Due to this fact, I question whether there will even be a retrial," he said.

Alfonsi appeared to be more relaxed than he has been in weeks. Ten days ago, he said he felt like a "cat on a hot roof."

Wreathed in smiles, the veteran lawmaker shook hands around the room and accepted congratulations.

"I can't tell you how elated I am," he said. "I had the utmost confidence in the judgment, honesty and integrity in the highest court of this state. My belief and confidence have been vindicated this morning."

Alfonsi will be starting his ninth term when the Legislature convenes Wednesday. He promised he would take an active part in legislative proceedings even though he does not hold a leadership position.

Afterwards in the chief executive's office, Gov. Warren P. Knowles congratulated Alfonsi. "This has been a real milestone around your neck," Knowles told the 1965 Assembly Republican minority leader. "I don't know how you stood it. Congratulations to you."

Collision Kills State Motorist

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The death of a man in a car-truck collision has raised the state's 1967 traffic fatality toll to 16 compared with 22 on this date last year.

R. A. Schubert, 38, of rural Waunakee died Monday night in a Madison hospital of injuries suffered three hours earlier when his car sideswiped a truck and collided head-on with a car at the edge of Madison.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — One of the oldest women in the world died over the weekend at Grudziadz, central Poland, the Polish press agency reported. She was Magdalena Trepkowska, age 111.

But Aid Administrator William S. Gaud said in a report Monday to President Johnson that "we are doing our best to reduce them further."

Gaud said the flow of Aid was increasing in the last two months while the rate of loss appeared to be decreasing to the 5 or 6 per cent figure.

An Associated Press investigation late last year said knowledgeable people in Vietnam cited losses ranging up to 40 per cent.

Airmen Claim Nasser Is Using Napalm, Gas

Towns in Yemen Reportedly Hit by Egyptian Attacks

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Two Egyptian airmen claimed Monday night that President Gamal Abdel Nasser had ordered gas and napalm bombs dropped on towns in Yemen. Cairo called their story a "shameful farce."

The two men, who appeared at a news conference in Amman, said they were Capt. Mohamed Motti Abdo and Capt. Saeed Mohamed Ali Eli Fadel, both 31. They said they deserted their units in Yemen last June and took refuge in Saudi Arabia, which has been supporting the royalist side in Yemen's civil war.

Fadel said Soviet pilots as well as Egyptians were flying

Egyptian bombers and fighters in attacks against royalist tribesmen.

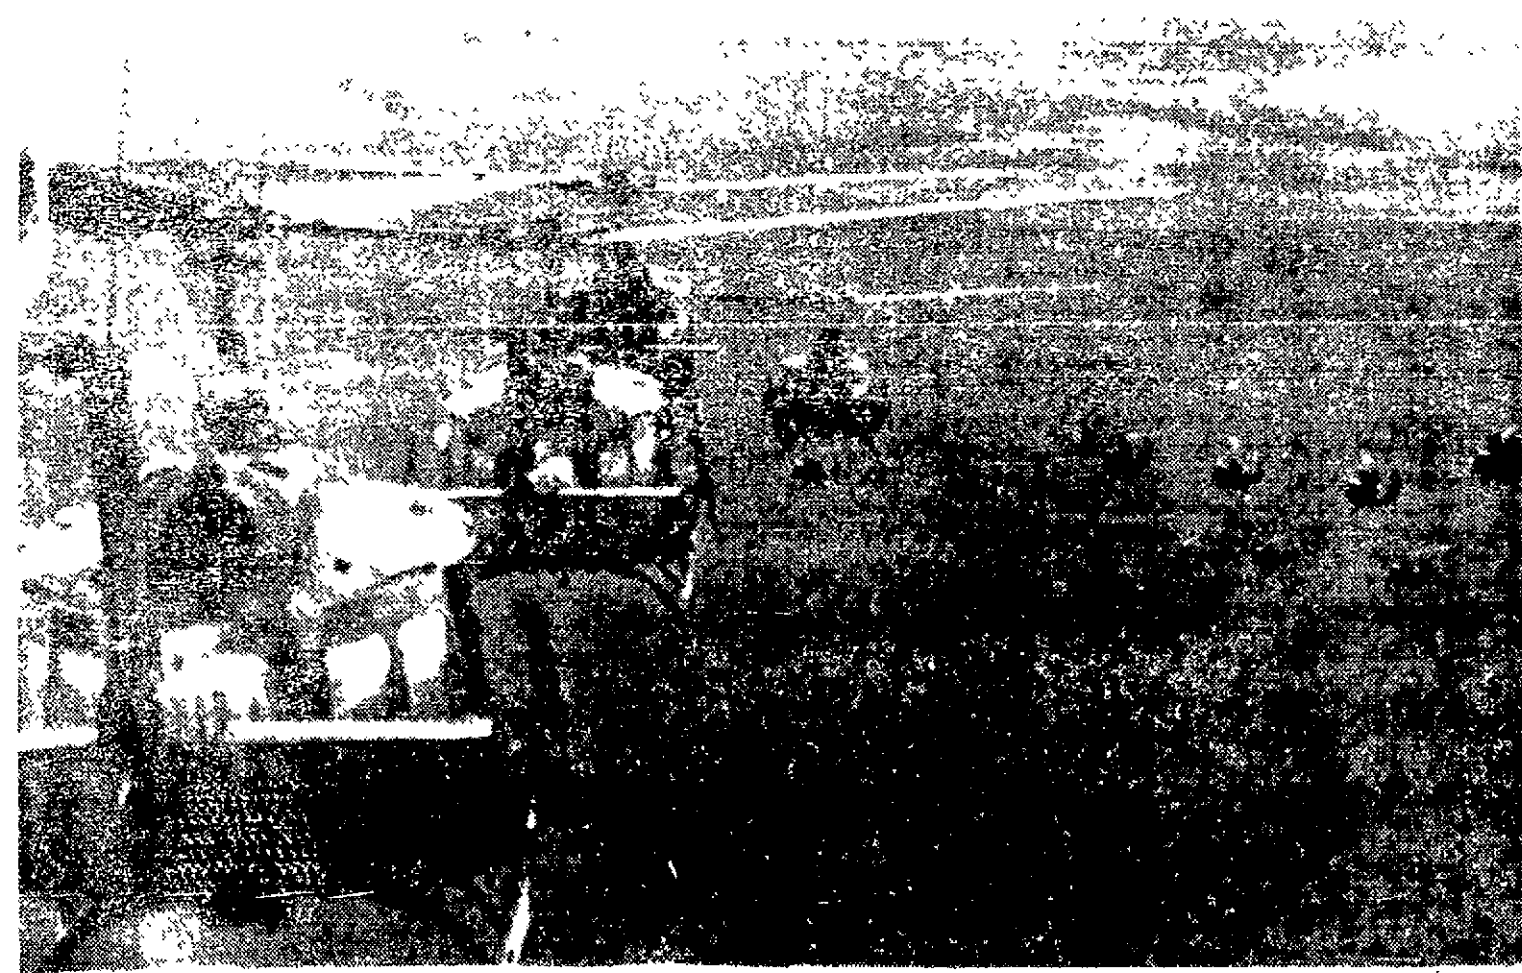

Abdo said that before going on raids, the airmen were told that Yemen was considered part of the United Arab Republic and that gas bombs should be used to crush resistance. He said they were instructed that the best time to drop gas was between 5 and 10 a.m., when there was usually a "dead wind" in the Yemen.

Abdo said he had taken part in air raids on three Saudi Arabian towns, including Abha about 100 miles inside the kingdom.

He said about 700 Egyptian troops are being killed or wounded daily in Yemen and the dead are being buried there.

He claimed that 26 Egyptian aircraft have been lost in Yemen.

$35 Million in School Aid Bills

Legislators Reject School Measures

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Legislative leaders took a cautious stance Monday in surveying prospective bills for the 1967 session of the Wisconsin Legislature, and voted down measures which would increase state school aids, create a special aid category to assist educationally deprived youngsters and totally rewrite the state's election statutes.

They endorsed bills, however, which would clarify local bonding authority for the financing of the new state technical institutes required by 1970 and would require all students in the state to attend some form of school until age 18 or high school graduation.

First Session — The action came at the first day's session of a two-day meeting of the powerful Legislative Council, an interim legislative agency which recommends bills to the coming Legislature for action.

The rejected bills still may be introduced during the session which starts Jan. 11, but will lack the often times influential recommendation of the council.

Cost of the major rejected items, both school aid bills, would have totaled more than $35 million in the coming biennium, according to State Superintendent of Public Instruction William Kahl.

The main school aid formula bill would have increased school aids by a flat rate of $2 per student to levels of $61 for high school students and $48 for elementary students, with a total biennial package cost of $30.5 million, Kahl explained.

The increase of school aids was necessary by the start, he said, and the only alternative to such action would be the increase of local property taxes for the financing of school costs.

Expanding enrollments and mushrooming costs, he said, climb faster than local valuation increases, leaving no other alternatives in paying for school costs.

Senate President Robert Knowles, R-New Richmond, struck the keynote of opposition to the proposal when he termed it "irresponsible" to suggest such spending levels without proposing taxing measures to pay for the additional state costs created.

"I certainly am not prepared to vote for a $30 million bill without knowing where we stand on finances. My wife does it all the time in the checking account, but she is the only one who can get away with it."

19 Votes Needed — The measure failed on a 7-5 vote. All but one Republican present voted against the measure. Council rules re-

Trucker Found Dead in Vehicle At Shiocton

Believe Minnesota Man Died of Heart Attack Before Crash

A 51-year-old Winona, Minn., truck driver was found dead in the cab of his vehicle shortly after it ran off State 54 near the Shiocton bridge about 3:45 p.m. Monday.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said that Sibert A. Woxland, a truck driver for 21 years, died of an apparent heart attack. The tentative ruling was made following a pathological examination. More complete tests were scheduled and Kemps said he will issue a final ruling on the death later.

The coroner said it will not be listed as a traffic fatality.

Said He Was Ill

Woxland, father of five, had left Winona about 9 p.m. Sunday and was delivering fertilizer in Brown and Outagamie Counties.

Woxland had complained of being ill while he was on his route Monday, Kemps said.

The large flatbed truck left State 54, narrowly missed a utility pole and stopped in a high snowbank. The truck was not extensively damaged. Outagamie County and Shiocton police took part in the investigation.

The body was released from the Borchardt and Mader Funeral Home to the Fawcett Funeral Home in Winona.

'New Approach' Needed to Justify Swine Breeder Group's Existence

Northeast Wisconsin Association Plans to Consult With Industry to Solve Troubles

BY PAT DUFFEY
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

CHILTON — A small band of loyalists interested in preserving an organization based on encouraging quality pork production decided here Monday it needs a new approach to justify its continued existence.

As a step in that direction, the Northeastern Wisconsin Swine Breeders Association emended Monday's meeting here. Other than the handful who are periodically elected to operate the organization, directors are named by each county which claims membership in the association.

Most of those directors remain unchanged year after year.

Many grade swine are raised in the state.

Hacker will confer with his special committee and formulate specific suggestions for changes in the regional association prior to the Feb. 11 dinner meeting of the association and advisers here at the Calumet County courthouse.

Only four of the 19 northeastern association directors attended Monday's meeting here. Other than the handful who are periodically elected to operate the organization, directors are named by each county which claims membership in the association.

Ross instructed association secretary Paul Woloske of Kewaunee County to contact representatives of the new Wisconsin Pork Producers Association and University of Wisconsin swine specialists.

Many Grades

The state association recently, in a similar revision move, changed its name from Wisconsin Swine Breeders Association. The consensus here indicated both the state and regional organization had for too long restricted its attention to the purebred breeders to the detriment of the changing industry.

Little Chute Nun Speaker

Members of Allouez general assembly, Knights of Columbus Fourth Degree, Appleton, will hear a discussion on "The Love Life of a Nun" at their 6:45 p.m. dinner meeting Wednesday in the Columbus Club.

The speaker will be an advanced English, speech and writing instructor at St. John High School in Little Chute — Sister Anacleto.

Following the program, which also is open to wives of the knights, a business meeting is planned for the screening of the new applicants. Edgar Becker is chairman of the membership committee, which will report, and Dr. R. F. Scherzinger is program chairman.

New members will have exemplification in Milwaukee on April 16.

year. It is believed some may no longer be active pork producers.

Until other changes are made the association will continue its annual sale at Chilton's fairgrounds. Date for this year's sale was set at Feb. 18. As an indication of a future trend, however, members decided to open the sale to all swine and lift the purebred restriction.

Last year's sale cost $140, but with the 35 animals consigned with a $5 entry fee, expenses were covered leaving a modest profit to the association. Swine breeders from Fond du Lac County contributed to the sale for the first time since the organization was formed in 1953.

Members felt the county organizations should be permitted to continue their individual sales.

The association originally was formed by Door, Brown, Marinette, Oconto, Manitowish and Kewaunee counties. Waupaca and Shawano counties joined after the first sale. Outagamie and Winnebago joined later.

CHILTON — For many years of dedicated service to the city the Chamber of Commerce Monday night bestowed J. E. Schrweide with its most coveted honor, "the 1966 Man of the Year" award.

Born on a farm five miles west or here, Schrweide graduated from the local high school in 1940.

Schrweide

Being interested in agriculture he worked for and won a scholarship for a dairy short course at the University of Wisconsin. Following the completion of the course he was employed for seven years at the Hillside Cheese factory.

Entered Insurance Field

He went into the insurance field in 1946 on a part-time basis and took over the operation of his father's two insurance agencies the following year. The two companies have been merged since he took over the operation.

Always having an interest in his hometown he joined the Chamber of Commerce in 1948. Since that time he has served the organization in many capacities, including president in 1956; also he is a past secretary. ## New London District Gives Retardate Class Preliminary Approval

Room, Teacher Are Available at Sugar Bush School, Board Told

NEW LONDON — A trainable class for mentally retarded children received preliminary approval Monday, by the board of education.

The board was given a preliminary outline of the program and how it would be financed. The board approved further planning.

These children attend special education classes in Manawa at present. New London, up to this year, was faced with overcrowded facilities and had no room for a special education class.

Supt. H. James Ramsdell said room was available at the Sugar Bush School and a teacher has indicated she would teach the trainable class. "We are large enough that we should be able to maintain the program," he said.

Federal Financing

Nine or 10 children would attend the 3½-hour daily class, he estimated. Seventy per cent of the cost would be financed by the handicapped children's bureau and 30 per cent by the federal government through the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Overwhelming support was given to a proposed adult education class leading to a high school diploma. Development of the program will continue before being accepted.

Ramsdell said the program would be for persons over 21-years-old who haven't finished school. Fifteen people are interested in the proposed program, he said.

The person's previous school records will be evaluated and he will be told what he needs to fulfill the graduation requirements, Ramsdell said. Two of the interested persons only need one-half and one credits, respectively to graduate, he said.

Extension Courses

University of Wisconsin extension courses will be used, with one class per week scheduled for in-school instruction, he said. If three persons need English for example, a class will be scheduled so they can meet together, he said. Various teachers could be used, depending on what the subject was for a given night, Ramsdell said, referring to various programs in English.

The program would upgrade the community, help people who want to earn a diploma and help them secure better jobs by being high school graduates, Ramsdell said.

Bids on a 1967, 67-passenger school bus chassis and body were opened. Kawell Motors, New London, was low bidder on the chassis with a price of $2,700. Superior Coach, Hales Corners, was apparent low bidder on the body with a price of $3,679.

Ambulance Was Major 1966 Project

CHILTON — Calumet County Ambulance Service was cited as a major Chamber of Commerce accomplishment for the past year, by retiring chamber president, Clyde McNeely, at Monday's annual meeting.

To help set up the program, chamber representatives met with town boards and city councils of other municipalities. Participating in the service, which is based at Calumet Memorial Hospital, are Chilton, New Holstein, Stockbridge, and the towns of Chilton, Charles-town and Brothertown. A need for ambulance service stemmed from the desire of local funeral directors to discontinue making ambulance calls.

Order Brochure

A second major project was the new city brochure prepared by the Chamber. After it was presented to the city council, aldermen agreed to pay for the printing. The new brochure is distributed to visitors to the city.

The chamber also was instrumental in obtaining city agreement for lighting of the welcome sign at the north city entrance. Other 1966 projects were the annual Ice-Out Contest; the Scholarship Banquet at which about $22,000 was given to high school graduates, and the sponsorship of three retail promotions.

Promote Lights

The Christmas program for city youth was held during December, and after Chamber recommendation, the city purchased several new Christmas street decorations.

Future plans include repainting of the church signs at the city entrances and the ice carnival tentatively set for this month. Ed Drone and Nyles Papendick are chairmen for the carnival.

Sentence Youth To Reformatory

Mark S. Mielke Charged With Taking H. C. Prange Truck

Mark S. Mielke, 18, 200 W. Pacific St., Monday morning was sentenced to Wisconsin State Reformatory, Green Bay, for an indeterminate period not to exceed two years after he pleaded guilty Dec. 29 to three counts including theft of an H.C. Prange Co. truck.

Other counts brought against Mielke by Appleton police, were driving without a license and failing to stop at the scene of an accident. All counts stemmed from a series of incidents Dec. 17.

The youth was charged with taking the vehicle without the owner's consent which is a felony charge. The other counts are misdemeanors.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller sentenced Mielke to 30-day and three-month jail terms on the misdemeanors but the terms are to be served concurrent with the reformatory term, Keller said.

Mielke took the truck from a warehouse and later was involved in an accident when the truck struck a car driven by Lois M. Craig, 743 Cleveland St., Neenah. The accident occurred on Superior Street near Pacific Street.

A disorderly conduct charge against Mielke, scheduled for hearing next week, was dismissed by Judge Keller.

New London Asks School Planning

Bonding for Building Expansion Avoidable School Board Told

NEW LONDON — Costly mistakes could be avoided in long range planning for future school construction needs, Supt. H. James Ramsdell told the board of education Monday night.

The board was studying expansion plans for several elementary schools in the school district.

"By planning, we would be able to build the school (the replacement of McKinley) without bonding," Ramsdell said. He said using surplus funds from previous construction programs which are earmarked for construction and establishing a 1½ mill ($1.50 per $1,000 equalized valuation) sinking fund should offset the cost and avoid bonding.

Ramsdell estimated the sinking fund would raise about $190,000 in three years and that $180,000 already in an earmarked fund would be enough to cover the construction of a 12-room school to replace the five-room McKinley building.

"Elementary grades in the city should reach the capacity of existing buildings in four years," Ramsdell said. He said only one additional elementary classroom remains at this time.

"If we don't plan we could be faced with transporting children to Sugar Bush or have our backs to the wall with an emergency building program," Ramsdell said.

The population area of school-age children in New London is moving to the south and west portions of the city, the board was told. No site in those areas has been selected for a school.

Eugene Fuhrmann, a board member, said the McKinley building was antiquated. "We should give the students a modern facility," he contended.

Fred Bernegger said adding on to existing buildings was not a proper thing to do. "The thing is to do it (building a new elementary school) right. It will take a good deal of planning which will avoid much of the pressure," he said.

Readfield Addition

Fuhrmann said the board should proceed to get specifications and cost estimates for the six room addition to the Readfield school.

The Readfield addition was discussed following a review of the Dale School, which currently has three grades.

Ramsdell said Readfield was nearing its capacity and that area was experiencing quite a population growth.

Construction of a district school bus garage was discussed. The district presently pays $2,400 rent annually to the city and purchases gas from the city for two cents over actual cost. School and municipal gasoline is exempt from federal tax.

Fuhrmann said an idea of the cost involved, location, and equipping of buildings should be obtained.

Youths Injured in Hit, Run; Seymour Man Denies Charge

Two teen-age pedestrians were reported in good condition after they were injured early Sunday morning by a hit-and-run driver on State 55 about 2½ miles north of Lau Road in the Town of Freedom.

A 21-year-old Seymour man Monday morning was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 in connection with the incident, and pleaded innocent to a hit and run charge.

Lloyd King, 16, route 1, Oneida, suffered a fractured pelvis and left leg, according to reports. The other injured youth, Kenneth Elm, 17, route 2, West De Pere, was treated for abrasions on his left ankle.

The youths were hurt, police said, after the car in which they were riding left 55 and went into a ditch. A second auto stopped and its occupants were helping to get the car out of the ditch when a car going north struck the Elm and King youths and continued on.

At 8:15 p.m., police said, Peter E. Fuhrmann, 21, route 1, Seymour, reported the accident to county authorities. He was arraigned on a hit-and-run charge this morning before Judge Gustave J. Keller and pleaded innocent. Judge Keller set trial for April 12 and bond at $60.

Court Plans Ruling on Legality of Tax Freeze

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The State Supreme Court may rule today on the legality of Wisconsin's Urban Redevelop-ment Law (tax free) now being explored by the City of Appleton.

Mayor George Buckley and the city council have expressed interest in the freeze statute with hopes of pumping more life into the city's commercial and industrial base and easing the tax burden being shouldered by the average property owner.

While some critics have labeled the law "undemocratic," there are two cities in the state — Milwaukee and Fond du Lac — that have prepared ordi-nances to implement it.

Study Committee

A special tax freeze study committee consisting of city officials and citizens, appointed by Mayor Buckley, recently held an organizational session and will not meet again until the high court hands down a decision.

A Milwaukee taxpayer is testing the law in the courts. One thing is certain after a study of the Wisconsin Urban Development Law — it will not apply to renovation or rebuild-ing of smaller businesses on College Avenue when the down-town business strip is torn up and reconstructed this spring.

The law sets specific guide-lines for applying the assess-ment or tax freeze, mostly in the case of major new building projects.

Although Milwaukee has uti-lized the freeze much to its advantage, Mayor Henry W. Maier said over the weekend that there was no further need for tax freezes because his city was back on the comeback trail.

Milwaukee is the only city in the state using the freeze method, having promoted mil-lions of dollars in commercial and industrial growth with the use of private and public capital.

Rejuvenation

One significant development in the state's largest city has been rejuvenation of the central business area — downtown Wisconsin Avenue — which had been smug and unchanged for years.

However, the sad awakening for Milwaukee, and other large and small cities across the country, came when the down-town cash registers began to ring with less frequency. "For Rent" signs became common-places on vacant downtown build-ings, office building occupancy declined and larger retailers built new stores on the city's fringe or in the suburbs.

"Freeze project" guidelines are specific in the Wisconsin Redevelopment Law, drafted to aid in the redevelopment of the older commercial, industrial and residential areas of a city in keeping with an updated comprehensive or master plan.

The paramount objective of the law is to eliminate blight — both economic and physical — and guard against their recur-rence.

Only the city council can designate a project for special consideration, and set the length of the freeze. In a so-called freeze situation, the developer pays the amount of tax on the site or property which was in effect when he undertook the major project.

On Tax Rolls

At the end of the freeze period, the new building goes on the local tax roll at the going assessment rate. In Appleton it is about 50 per cent of market value.

The plan commission or rede-velopment authority (Appleton does not have the latter) are agencies which put the law into operation, taking into considera-tion area blight elimination.

land assembly costs, additions to the tax base, industrial and commercial diversity, parking requirements, aesthetics and general welfare of the commu-nity.

Unfortunately, as some Apple-ton officials and downtown property owners had hoped the statute does not apply where projects are devoted to remodel-ing, refurbishing, restoring and rehabilitation of residential, commercial and small business type structures.

Either local or outside private capital must carry out the projects.

Should the city ever become involved in a federal urban renewal program, the criteria will change somewhat but the private investor must still play the major role.

Blight Category

It would seem the Wisconsin Redevelopment Law applies on-ly to those major projects — such as new department stores, office buildings and industrial plants in areas now in the commercial and economic blight category.

Buckley has indicated he feels the tax freeze should not be considered unless speaking of a project of $1 million or more.

The Milwaukee mayor may have been walking the political tightrope the other day when he signed a council-approved freeze for a new $23 million hotel in downtown Milwaukee, and then said it would be the last to receive his okay.

At the time, Maier criticized the law as being unfair and undemocratic because it could not be applied to all property owners. During Maier's tenure, the city council has approved tax freezes for a half dozen structures which cost well over $50 million, giving the downtown a much-needed shot in the arm.

Awaiting Clients

Ironically, just 40 miles to the south of Appleton lies the city of Fond du Lac (population: 35,000) pushing for downtown revitalization and new industry, and eagerly awaiting its first client after having several nib-bles.

Normally, once the assess-ment freeze expires — the first year taxes on the building make up for the tax loss covering the years the dispensation was in effect.
